DETAILED ACTION

Preliminary Amendment

Applicant submitted a preliminary amendment on 24 June 2002 canceling claims 30-35, 38-43, 48-54, and 56-57, and adding claims 58-75. This amendment has not been entered as the case never had claims above 17. Applicant may want to check to make sure that the amendment was filed for the correct application in the patent family.

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-6, drawn to a process for preparing a fibrinogen adhesive, classified in class 424, subclass 530.
- II. Claims 7-8, drawn to a fibrinogen adhesive, classified in class 424, subclass 530.
- III. Claims 9, 17, and 16, drawn to a method for applying adhesive to a patient, classified in class 604, subclass 289.
- IV. Claims 10-14, drawn to an apparatus for preparing an adhesive, classified in class 137, subclass 3.
- V. Claim 15, drawn to an applicator for dispensing an adhesive, classified in class 604, subclass 82.

Art Unit: 3763

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the process can be used to make a different product such as an adhesive other than one with thrombin and calcium ion.

Inventions I and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions cannot be used together (can't use something if it has not been made yet) and they have different effects (i.e. one results in a composition, and one results in a treated patient).

Inventions I and IV are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the apparatus can be used for a different process such as any mixing of materials other than fibrinogen adhesive.

Inventions I and V are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions the process of making a product cannot be used with a device for dispensing the product, and they have different effects (one creates an adhesive, one treats a patient).

Inventions II and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the product can be used in a different process such as gluing other materials together.

Inventions II and IV are related as apparatus and product made. The inventions in this relationship are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the apparatus as claimed is not an obvious apparatus for making the product and the apparatus can be used for making a different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different apparatus (MPEP § 806.05(g)). In this case the product can be made with a different apparatus such as any mixing device.

Inventions II and V are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention V has separate utility such as dispensing materials other than adhesives. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions III and IV are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions cannot be used together and have different effects (i.e. one makes the adhesive and the other uses it).

Inventions III and V are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions cannot be used together and have different functions (i.e. one dispenses compositions, the other glues body tissue).

Inventions IV and V are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions cannot be used together and have different functions (i.e. one makes the adhesive including the body fluid extraction, the other dispenses it).

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the searches for each invention are distinct for each one, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
